Class of 2020 virtual celebrations

The University of Dayton will hold virtual celebrations for the Class of 2020. The celebrations do not replace commencement exercises, but are an extra way to mark an important milestone in the lives of graduates.

As previously announced, the University is planning a formal commencement ceremony to be held at a later date, once the current health crisis has passed and public health authorities allow such a large-scale gathering.

The virtual celebrations, held May 9 for graduate and law students and May 10 for undergraduates, will include conferral of degrees; degrees will then be mailed to graduates.
